Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Srinivasan (U.S. Pat. No. 6,460,076).

Claim 1 reads as follows:

1. A computer implemented method for offering items for sale or rent comprising:
providing a user with the choice of renting or purchasing an item;
generating a used item purchase price for the item;

receiving a user command to rent an item; and subsequently receiving a user command to purchase the item.

Claim 1 teaches a computer implemented method for offering items for sale or rent. The user is provided with the choice of renting or purchasing an item.

Srinivasan does not teach or suggest providing the user with the choice for renting or purchasing an item. Rather, Srinivasan discloses a web page a system user may access in order to make selections from a database and download a variety of multimedia information. The user may be billed for such downloads. However, Srinivasan does not provide the user with a choice to either rent or purchase the item.

Thus, at least for the foregoing reasons, applicant respectfully submits that Srinivasan does not teach or suggest all the claimed elements of claim 1.

Claims 2-10

Claims 2-10 are dependent on claim 1. Therefore, it is respectfully submitted that claims 2-10 are patentable over Srinivasan at least for the reasons stated above with respect to the patentability of claim 1. Accordingly, Applicant respectfully requests the withdraw of the rejection of claims 2-10.

Claim 11 reads as follows:

Rather, Srinivasan discloses a web page a system user may access in order to make selections from a database and download a variety of multimedia information. The user may be billed for such downloads. However, Srinivasan does not provide the user with a choice to either rent or purchase the item.

Srinivasan do not teach or suggest a computer readable storage medium storing instructions that when executed by a computer cause the computer to provide a user with a choice of renting or purchasing an item.
